The following e-mail was sent to certain shareholders and other contacts of Consolidated-Tomoka Land Co. on April 13, 2017:

As you may have seen, Glass Lewis has recommended that CTO shareholders vote for ALL SEVEN of CTO's director nominees. The report is worth reading if you have access to it – if you don't, our press release (attached) will give you the highlights. We are pleased that Glass Lewis took the time to understand the success that CTO has had, the strength of our board and the false accusations that the company has suffered over the past almost 18 months from our largest shareholder, Wintergreen. Wintergreen has no credible plan, has no relevant experience and is rife with conflicts between CTO's shareholders and Wintergreen's mutual fund.

After Wintergreen's very complimentary statements about CTO in its March 2015 annual report, Wintergreen flipped 180 degrees with very aggressive accusations starting in November 2015 about management and the board. These accusations have been at the very least unfair, distracting and damaging, are based on knowingly false statements, and have significantly damaged shareholder value. As most of our shareholders know, we took the high road over the past 18 months. Our troubles with Wintergreen have had nothing to do with CTO and everything to do with Wintergreen's own needs. Where has the Wintergreen board been? Where is the oversight? It's easy to write letters, but the facts have always been on our side.

We hope that this Glass Lewis report will be an important step in getting this unpleasant business behind us and allowing us to continue to pursue what attracted me to the stock in 2010—the opportunity to unlock value from our land holdings in a tax efficient manner. CTO’s 12% annual compounded return has been strong, but can you imagine what our returns could/would have been if our largest shareholder were supportive of us and our company’s success? With the robust land pipeline we have and the positive attention that Latitude Margaritaville, Tanger Outlets and the Trader Joe’s distribution center has brought to our land, we know the momentum is in our favor to keep delivering results.

As long as I am in this seat, we will always remain open to what’s best for our shareholders.

Please read the report and remember, we need everyone to vote the WHITE proxy card! We look forward to seeing you at our annual meeting on April 26th.

Regards,

John
